

Spread your Wings and Fly...with NAIW.

Begin with the end in mind. Stephen Covey

Don't start without thought or direction. Taking a trip involves a departure and a destination. Look deeply and honestly at you. Where are you now? What talents, abilities, and resources do you have in your hand today? It's okay to take a deep honest look because you are a talented valued person. Sure you aren't perfect - but who you are today is exactly who you should be today. Take an inventory of all your strengths and crow about them – at least to yourself.

An opportunity to do this may be at our Annual Council meeting next month in Traverse City. Find the information and registration elsewhere on the website. This time will be as valuable as you make it.

Then, empowered by those good vibes, dream about what you want to be. Get yourself an 'end' that pleases you. Yes, you get to choose the end – the goal you set. Make this image vivid, full of detail and in full color. Don't skimp. Instead, be extravagant, and be outrageous That is the end you can work toward because YOU own it.

NAIW, MI Council and I – all stand and wait to applaud you on your first step. We will be here to applaud your every step.
